

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences presented the Dean's Challenge Award to recipients in each of the academic departments who would be continuing their studies through Spring 2008. Nominees were individually picked by the faculty within each department of the college. These select students were chosen based on their dedication to scholarship, research, and a commitment to learning. Students should have proven their academic excellence and chosen challenging curriculum in order to receive a faculty nomination. Finalists were then chosen by the Dean's Review Committee by assessing which students demonstrated to have shown to truly experienced all the opportunities George Mason offers.

Three students within the Administration of Justice program were presented with the awards and its accompanying scholarship. The three winners from the Administration of Justice Department are: Amanda Hubert (Undergraduate Student), George Fachner, Jr. (Master's Candidate), and Anne Douds (Doctoral Candidate). The Dean's Challenge Awards were presented to the winners at the Celebration of Scholarship on October 29, 2007.
